Dear Beth Erickson:

Re: Reclaim Extension of Mine Permit Number: inactive S030040

We contacted you in the winter to let you know that because of weather it was impossible to get equipment up on the top of the Lynn Valley Mountain to do a reclaim on a test hole that we had on our property. As you remember, the area had never had any quarry work done. We had got a sample of stone out to show to buyers that were interested in buying the property for a future quarry.

We requested an extension to June 15, 2007. We figured we could have the reclamation done by that time but as I mentioned in our last letter, there are snow drifts over the top and piles of snow between a heavy growth of pine trees and the stone ledges where the reclaim project has to be completed. The run off from the drift and snow runs right down the road so we cannot get up to the area to do the reclamation. We thought for sure we could have this job done by June 15, 2007 but on June 8th it was still snowing in that area and has snowed a couple of times since then. It is impossible to get our equipment up there as yet.

We are requesting a thirty day extension on this reclamation project because of the snow problem. It will only take a few hours to do the work once we get our equipment up to the area. We had no idea this year would be so unusually cold, and that it would snow as late as it has on the mountain. We have had several snow storms in the last two months that has prolonged the melting of the snow bank.

We will be looking forward to hearing from you on this matter. Thank you very much for your patience.

Sincerely,
Roscoe / Joyce Ward
